The founding philosophy of the VOU Dance Company is to provide fulfilling and sustainable career paths for Fijian artists. In order to provide this VOU founded the Conservatorium of Dance, which is a two-year tertiary Dance Diploma Program and once students graduate they have guaranteed employment with us at the VOU HUB which entails a 5 stage development plan of differentiating Arts! Culture! Activities! venues on Denarau.

Our first venue is a brand new 450 seater attraction almost 5 weeks into operation along Denarau Road featuring a world class show called – Fiji Untold. We haves been receiving excellent reviews and here is the link on Trip Advisor.

It really is a MUST EXPERIENCE and Fiji's first broadway style production! Appreciate if you can also please share with your teams & networks and help us promote our new tourism entertainment venture. The show is from 8pm to 10pm and makes for a really enticing after dinner entertainment inclusive of light snacks & soft drinks. Come and enjoy 50% off the attached ticket prices for Local Residents until 30th September and happy to extend special rates to any visiting business partners of your Ministries & Organisations into Fiji during the validity period.

DAKU GOES GREEEN

Daku Resort is nestled along the main highway a few minutes away from Savusavu Town in Fiji. The resort boasts spacious beachside bures, self-contained villas and eco-friendly houses that caters for backpackers, family retreats and couples getaways.With about a 8–9 hour journey beginning with a 2 hour bus ride to Natovi, a 4 hour boat ride across to Vanua Levu and another 2 hour bus ride to Savusavu, you've reached your paradise.

We checked in to our beachside interconnecting family bure at around 2pm. It was our home for the next two days. The wooden bure was decorated and furnished well and included an outdoor shower with a waterfall showerhead and a concave stonewall that allowed a bit more privacy. Each room also came with a mini bar fridge, coffee and tea facilities, a spacious wardrobe with your own ironing board and hangers.

There was a ceiling fan and an air conditioning unit to help us beat the northern humidity but for the majority of the trip we opened up the balcony doors to allow the sea breeze to flow right through our room.Imagine lying in bed with the balcony door wide open, the beautiful sea breeze entering the spacious room and Beyoncé's 'Spirit' playing in the background and a view to die for? That's what this trip was all about.

On Fiji Islands – Suva – Chapter 2.1

We ordered a second round from Hari and watched the Suva traffic subside. Below us passed young Indians in bell-bottoms and bula shirts; Fijian matrons in ankle-length dresses, big combs stuck in their hair; with their husbands, bureaucrats perhaps, wearing ties, dark sulus, and carrying briefcases. Occasional tourists, pale as mushrooms, ambled to and from the ship.

Derek had relaxed with the beer. "The good old Metropole! You've got to admit the place has character. " "I'm afraid I'm reaching the age when I'd rather look at character than live in it," I said, and he laughed.

Derek was in a silent mood at breakfast, staring at the Fiji Times, coffee cup in one hand, perpetually smoldering cigarette in the other. It was some minutes before he spoke:

"I'll see you later. I'm going to the museum to look up Fergus and Senitiki." I took the hint. Derek is best avoided when taciturn. I told him I'd look for a better hotel.

Stepping out into the sunshine brought a feeling of liberation. Suva, unprepossessing the day before, was now an unexpected delight. Away from the market area the streets were spotless, the paint fresh, the different outfits of Indians and Fijians a kinetic display of colour.

I crossed the footbridge over Nubukalou Creek-a tidal mooring for small boats-scowled at the Kentucky Fried Chicken franchise on the corner, and proceeded past the post office, glancing from time to time at Suva: A History and Guide, by the linguist Albert Schutz. A capital city of only seventy thousand-a human size. There were quaint touches of the British tropics, Leyland buses for instance, driving on the left, with their sooty exhausts, archaic local coachwork, and strange destinations: NAUSORI / RAIWAI / RAIWAQA. Yet there was none of the decay too often found in former outposts of the British Empire. Suva was evidently no Banjul or Belize.Western civilization hangs on much of the post-colonial world like an ill-fitting suit of clothes, a hand-me-down, uninvited, un-comfortable, and uncared for, worn with resentment because its wearers have come to feel naked without it. So often the European legacy is maimed cultures and dying villages, threadbare economies and torn constitutions. But here one felt immediately that the foreign clothes were worn with style and with subtle alterations to improve the fit.

VIDEO OF THE WEEK

Meet George Mclaren who plays the role of the SHAPE SHIFTING IGUANA in our FIJI UNTOLD show.

Meet George Mclaren who plays the role of the SHAPE SHIFTING IGUANA in our FIJI UNTOLD show. The iguana is the underworld's custodian of the sacred sticks, that befriends our female protagonist Lagi and leads her to learning her heritage symbolised in the learning of the stick dance.

George comes from the northern island of Vanua Levu and grew up with a love for dance. One day he just decided on a whim to get on a boat from Vanua Levu to Suva, Fiji, with the dream of being a dancer and turned up at the VOU Dance Studio door. We welcomed the talented young chap with open arms. That was in October of 2016, and the rest as they say is history.

George has a love of Hip Hop and a passion for choreographing innovative contemporary dance. In 2017 he travelled with a group of dancers to Shanghai, China where he lived and worked for a summer performing at Happy Valley, Hong Kong alongside dance teams from around the world.

In 2019 George travelled to Italy to perform with VOU at the Los Spirito Del Pianeta, a celebration of global indigenous culture where the Fijian team got to share ritual and ceremony with first nation tribes from all over the world who come together and share in our common humanity.

George says "Chase your dreams no matter how crazy it seems, do what makes you happy and just try! It will lead you to a more amazing and fulfilling experience"

Overview:

When there is an assassination attempt on U.S. President Allan Trumbull (Morgan Freeman), his trusted confidant, Secret Service Agent Mike Banning (Gerard Butler), is wrongfully accused and taken into custody. After escaping from capture, he becomes a man on the run and must evade his own agency and outsmart the FBI in order to find the real threat to the President. Desperate to uncover the truth, Banning turns to unlikely allies to help clear his name, keep his family from harm and save the country from imminent danger.

DAMODAR CINEMAS

LIFE CINEMA

Overview:

Life changes overnight for Coach John Harrison when his high school basketball team and state championship dreams are crushed under the weight of unexpected news. When the largest manufacturing plant shuts down and hundreds of families leave their town, John questions how he and his family will face an uncertain future. After reluctantly agreeing to coach cross-country, John and his wife, Amy, meet an aspiring athlete who's pushing her limits on a journey toward discovery. Inspired by the words and prayers of a new-found friend, John becomes the least likely coach helping the least likely runner attempt the impossible in the biggest race of the year.
